

Translated from: <https://www.lachainemedias.com/2016/06/interview-tanis-blackout.html>

LA CHAÎNE MÉDIAS

Discover our interview with Tanis, a multitalented artist, global citizen and humanitarian.

Author: Jérémy Demange – Date: 8 June 2016

With the imminent arrival of her first EP Blackout, we managed to interview Tanis, a young artist who is both a greatly talented writer-composer and singer. Having already released music videos for her two singles “Ce N’est Pas Moi” (Its Not Me) and “Losing My Mind”, the singer’s next video “Blackout” will be released a few days from now. Without further delay, check out her interview featured in this video:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=yOhyMiDw55s>

Tanis is a child of the world... having had the opportunity to travel the globe, passing from Indonesia to Greenland, growing up in 6 different countries and having learnt French, English and Chinese!

As for her interest in music its no doubt thanks to an encounter with Ennio Morricone at the age of just 13 that everything fell into place. Soon after she began composing music for film scores and live theatre. Her passion and talent then saw her picked by Disney Asia to compose the score to their film Trail of the Panda.

Born to a French father and Singaporean mother, with Italian, Chinese and American-Irish ancestry, Tanis grew up across France, the Bahamas, Switzerland, China, England and America, additionally she is able to speak several languages and holds a great awareness of the planet's many different cultures.

Beautiful but with an air mystery, as much a citizen of the world, as she is an artist and humanitarian, Tanis is a writer-composer and singer of great talent. A veritable musician, she not only sings and plays the piano, guitar and percussion, but also writes and produces film scores.