Check out Tanis's latest music video "Losing My Mind"

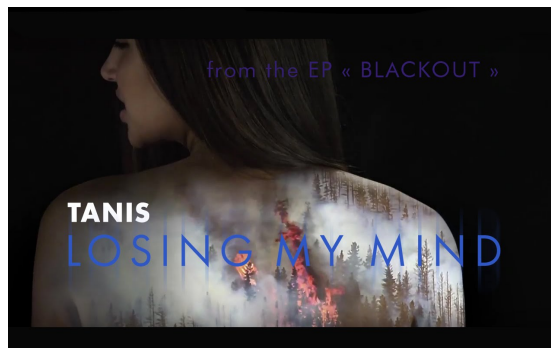

Author: Luc Dehon – Date: 3 March 2016

Tanis has just released the music video for "Losing My Mind", an early excerpt from her first EP Blackout due for release this spring.

Born to a French father and Singaporean mother, Tanis grew up in France, then Switzerland, the Bahamas, China, England and America. A veritable world citizen, the young artist started her carrier by composing music for live theatre and film score (she was notably chosen by Disney Asia to score their film Trail of the Panda). From composer, Tanis subsequently became a singer and songwriter.

After having released her first single "Ce N'est Pas Moi" (Its Not Me), Tanis has just come out with a second one, "Losing My Mind", a song in which she evokes her love for our planet and her concerns over the damage we are inflicting on it.

Tanis is currently hard at work, refining her upcoming EP Blackout, expected to arrive this spring, distributed by PBC Music/Warner.
