

Translated from: <http://nobuzztoday.over-blog.com/2016/03/tanis-retour-gagnant-avec-losing-my-mind.html>

NO BUZZ TODAY

TANIS RETURNS TRIUMPHANT WITH “LOSING MY MIND”

Interviewer: nobuzzday – Date: 4 March 2016

Tanis releases “Losing My Mind”, a single committed to the environment.

We first discovered Tanis with “Ce N’est Pas Moi” (Its Not Me), which was met with great success on both the airwaves and TV channels. We catch up with Tanis for a new excerpt from her EP Blackout. The song is called “Losing My Mind” and consists of a brilliant demonstration of charisma, compassion and empathy from a musician that loves Coldplay and Bon Iver and who for a while now has composed music with an innate ability to touch people with her graceful and feminine voice that eases suffering.

“For me, the world is at once both vast and intimate. Variations on the themes of human existence are endless and never fail to fascinate me. But faced with infinite possibilities it is sometimes hard to find oneself and not lose sight of who we are. My music and songs are what keep me grounded and feeling safe, even when the walls around me crumble and the world shakes. Some days, I feel lost and unable to control the thousands of things going on around me in the stunning ballroom of life; but through my music I know exactly who I am, and in that I find a sense of stability and peace unlike anything else.”

~ Tanis